

Polygamy Crippled.

The following is the way the Salt Lake Tribune jubilates over the Liberal victory in Salt Lake and Weber county on last Monday: Is it not immense? The Central Stake of Zion, on the popular vote, has gone from fifty up to perhaps one hundred Liberal. It is a day that when we predicted its coming, a few years ago, men tapped their foreheads and shook their heads most piteously. We fully believed that the majesty of the Republic would after a while assert itself; we believed that even as the thief on the cross repented at last, a sense of justice would at last pervade Mormonism itself. The victory yesterday was not won wholly by Gentiles. The quicksand conscience and expanding Americanism in many a young Mormon's heart helped to swell the glory of yesterday. That fact doubles the sweetness of the triumph, for looking forward it is not vain now to hope that the time is not very far away when the Territory will be Americanized indeed. The late campaign was a good experience for the city to have. It has been asleep for forty years, and politically men groped like sleep-walkers. The campaign broke the spell of somnambulism, and it will never again obtain away here. The campaign was but a preliminary skirmish, but those in it understood its significance. It was a fight in the outer works, but the object was to obtain the right position for storming the main citadel in February, and the position was won. The enemy felt as Bragg felt when Hooker's cannon began to thunder on Lookout Mountain, and in mighty refrain the guns of Howard and Thomas in the center and of Sherman, far off on the extreme left, began to roar. The present is all right and all the omens for the future are good. No wonder men are mad with happiness. It is an epoch, a geological period; the old things have passed away. Night's candles have burned out, and jocund day stands tip-toe on the Wasatch mountain tops.

Antiquated architecture.

With all the money that is being and has been expended by the State for buildings it is to be regretted that at least one of modern style has not been erected. Nothing more homely or ancient could be found than the box-like house with a turret stuck up in the center of the front line which goes up whenever the State has a dollar to spend. A little modern architecture at the University, would do as much good in educating the people in what is new and handsome in the art of designing as to drum away at the children all the time on the inside. The site of the University is a very fine one, and a really beautiful or even a passable building up there would be a great improvement and advantage to our town, and would give the State at large much more value for its money. The State does not own a building half as pretty as the Reno public schoolhouse, and it has not one with so much room and so well planned that cost so little.

THE Reno yard men hardly do the fair thing in regard to street crossings. Very many times of late only a narrow gap is left for teams to cross through, and where so many ladies and children drive it is increasing the risk greatly and should be looked after carefully. It looks to a man on top of a freight train to be a very small thing, and when he is in a big hurry the temptation is to rush off, even if the job is not just right; but to a lady driving an uncertain horse it sometimes becomes a matter of life and death. One or two crossings in the town limits of Reno have been blocked partially by cars about half the time lately, which is against the law and subjects the Railroad Company to a fine.

THE Elko Independent of the 6th inst. says that "for the first time in a number of years, Elko county is issuing scrip to pay the running expenses of the county. There is lots of money in the treasury, but it belongs to the School fund and Road fund." Why don't the Commissioners of Elko county pattern after our wonderful State financiers and issue an irredeemable bond large enough to clean up the School fund and put the county on a cash basis? The road fund might be depleted in the same statesmanlike manner.

The President in Boston.
BOSTON, August 7.—President Harrison and party arrived here this morning at 9 o'clock and were escorted to the Hotel Vendome.

President Harrison and party arrived at 9 o'clock. As early as 8 o'clock crowds began to gather about the station, and when the train arrived the depot and adjacent streets were packed. At 8:30 o'clock Lieutenant-Governor Brackett and staff and Mayor Hart arrived at the station, and made their way to the platform, accompanied by Colman Field, of the United States Engineer Corps, who is detailed as a special aid to the President. Immediately upon the arrival of the train Lieutenant-Governor Brackett boarded the special train and cordially greeted the President. The party then left the train and moved along the platform, being kept free from the crowd by a cordon of police, to the entrance, where carriages were waiting to convey the guests to the hotel. When the President appeared at the entrance cheer upon cheer went up from the crowd, which was continued along the entire route from the depot to the hotel. The President bowed his acknowledgments. The party were escorted in carriages by the First Battalion of cavalry and a police detail. Many of the buildings and stores along the route were gay with flags, bunting and appropriate notices, and the sidewalks, windows and streets were thronged.

A Death Sentence.

LIVERPOOL, August 7.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Maybrick, on trial for the murder of her husband, brought in a verdict of guilty to-day. Mrs. Maybrick was thereupon sentenced to death.

Judge Stephen, in his charge to the jury, said there was strong and distressing evidence to show that the prisoner had a motive for ridding herself of her husband. This could be found in her letter to Briefly. This was terrible and important, in view of the fact that on the day the letter was written the doctors fully expected Maybrick to recover. It showed there was reason for believing the prisoner was desirous of being rid of her husband in order that she might live with her paramour. The judge put the question to the jury whether it was reasonable to believe that a loving wife would yield to her husband's suggestion and put an unknown powder in his food.

On His Way East.

FALL RIVER, Mass., August 7.—The steamer Pilgrim, with the Presidential party on board, arrived at 4 a. m. The distinguished passenger was not roused, however, and it was 6 o'clock before he appeared in the saloon, when he was greeted on behalf of the commonwealth by Adjutant-General Dalton. But little time was spent in formalities, and after breakfast the party disembarked and stepped into a special car. Shortly after 7 o'clock the train, amid the cheers of the crowd, pulled out for Boston.

Instantly Killed.

NEVADA CITY, August 7.—Yesterday afternoon John Edwards, aged 22, while alighting from a bucket at the 200-level of the Baron Von Schroeder's mine, made a misstep and fell to the dump, 200 feet below, and was instantly killed.

Killed and Crippled.

OMAHA, Aug. 6.—A defective culvert at Weston, Neb., on the Union Pacific, this morning caused the wreck of a freight train drawn by two engines. Engineer Mitchell was killed, switchman Conklin fatally injured, and engineer Morgan crippled for life.

Probably Unfounded.

NEW YORK, August 7.—A statement is published here this morning as a rumor that there has been a heavy defalcation in the great banking house of Brown Bros. & Co. The firm issued a card to-day, declaring the report ridiculous and untrue.

A Serious Charge.

PARIS, August 7.—Captain Bujac, a former member of Boulanger's staff, and afterwards attached to the Foreign Office, has been arrested on a charge of being a German spy.

BOSTON, August 7.—It is reported that the wool firm of Brown, Stees & Clark is financially embarrassed. The firm say they will assign to-day.

Betrays a Trust and Fells.

MINNEAPOLIS, August 7.—J. Frank Collom, one of the best known young attorneys in Minneapolis, has confessed to forging the name of John F. Blaisdell, a millionaire pioneer of this city, to notes and other papers footing up to a huge total of $227,000. It had been suspected for some weeks that something was radically wrong with Collom's accounts. He had been the trusted attorney for Blaisdell for several years. It appears that Collom began his peculiar financial methods upwards of a year ago. Blaisdell had every confidence in the young man until a few weeks ago, when F. A. Chamberlain, cashier of the Security Bank, met him in the street and asked: "How much of J. F. Collom's paper have you indorsed?" The millionaire replied: "Ten thousand dollars."

Chamberlain became greatly excited. "Why, Mr. Blaisdell," said he, "we have nearly three times that amount of paper in the bank indorsed by you."

The capitalist's face blanched at this. "It must be a mistake," he said; "I know I have never indorsed Collom's papers to any such amount. There must be a great mistake somewhere."

"There is no error regarding the amount," returned the cashier, "and it strikes me, too, we had better look into this matter at once."

Then Blaisdell and the Security officials put their heads together, and the result of a hasty investigation showed something very seriously wrong. Several brokers and money lenders were discovered, and within a very short period $227,000 in notes and other securities were discovered, but to only part of which was Blaisdell's name attached. Blaisdell pronounced all signatures purporting to be his as forgeries.

A detective was set to shadow Collom, and his books were overhauled by an expert accountant, and the opinion of the expert on the handwriting secured was to the effect that Collom was a forger.

Collom was then confronted with the evidence against him, and without mincing words the young attorney at once broke down and confessed his crime in detail. Collom wept bitterly and begged his hearers not to spare him; he was almost beside himself.

"Send me to the penitentiary," he cried; "no mercy is due me; I do not ask for any; I have been weak and foolish, and I can only say that I deserve my fate. No one can ever know how I regret that I have violated the confidence placed in me by Blaisdell."

It is stated that the money secured from Blaisdell by Collom was lost entirely in real estate deals. The young man has considerable real estate, and the equities have all been turned over to Blaisdell.

It is reported to-day that Collom's father and other friends will come to his assistance, and if such proves the case probably the matter will be settled.

Security Bank holds $23,200 of the forged papers, all of which is amply secured.

It was discovered late this morning that Collom had forged the names of several other prominent citizens for amounts ranging from $5,000 to $20,000.

Collom occupies a handsome residence on Portland avenue, lives in good style, employing several servants; has a charming wife and two or three children.

State Convention.

HARRISBURG, August 7.—The Republican State Convention met here this morning, and Chairman Andrews called the Convention to order.

Walter Lyon of Allegheny was made temporary Chairman, and in a speech congratulated the nation on the election of Harrison, and the Republican party on its state of harmony.

After appointing the committees the Convention took a recess.

After recess Senator G. W. Delamater was made permanent Chairman. Delamater was escorted to the stage and made a brief speech. He dwelt upon the grand Administration of Harrison, and paid a glowing tribute to Governor Beaver. His reference to Chairman Quay's magnificent leadership evoked long and continued applause. A fitting eulogy was pronounced upon the late General Cameron, and then the speaker described the Administration of Cleveland, the latter's position on pensions and his subservience to the South being the leading thought.

The report of the Committee on Platform was read and adopted. The platform indorsed the Chicago platform, and rejoices in the victory of 1888, because it was fought on a Pennsylvania platform, under a Pennsylvania leader; indorses the Administration of Harrison; declares in favor of liberal pensions, and commends the friendly liberality of the Commissioner; declares that the Republican party has fulfilled all its obligations to the prohibitionists, by having provided the machinery for submitting the question to the people of the State.

Henry K. Boyer of Philadelphia was nominated by acclamation for State Treasurer. Boyer accepted and made a brief speech.

Hon. W. H. Andrews was continued as Chairman of the State Committee for another term.

Not Allowed to See His Client.

CHICAGO, August 7.—This morning Judge Baker issued a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Martin Burke, the Cronin suspect. The writ was obtained by lawyer Kennedy, who had been refused permission to see his client. It is returnable at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but was issued with the understanding that if the officials permitted Kennedy to see Burke before that hour the matter would be dropped. The Chief of Police allowed a friend of Dr. Cronin to look at Burke this morning, presumably for identification.

More Thievery.

LONDON, August 7.—A dispatch from Candia, Crete, reports the arrival of an Italian torpedo boat and a Russian corvette.

Official Report.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The report of Captain Shepard, commander of the revenue steamer Rush, in regard to the seizure of the Black Diamond, mailed at San Francisco, has been received at the Treasury Department. Acting Secretary Bacheller refuses to give it to the press, but admits substantially the newspaper report concerning the seizure. It contains no reference to the vessel's escape, for the reason that it had not occurred when it was written; neither does it give any explanation with regard to the smallness of the crew placed in charge of the prize, but the report is said to indicate that the vessel was not paroled, but subject only to the control of the prize crew. Acting Secretary Bacheller said as the question seems to assume a political importance, he preferred to do nothing in the matter without consulting with Secretary Windom upon his return to the city.

Explosion of Fireworks.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Fig a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers—the Cal. Fig Syrup Company.

A GENEROUS MAN.

Matt. McCabe, of New Brunswick, Ill., offers to pay five dollars to any person troubled with bloody flux, who will take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy according to directions and does not get well in the shortest possible time. One-half of a 25-cent bottle of this remedy cured him of bloody flux, after he had tried other medicines and the prescriptions of physicians without benefit. Mr. McCabe is perfectly safe in making this offer, as more than a thousand bottles of this remedy are sold each day and it has never been known to fail in any case of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea or bloody flux, when the plain printed directions were followed. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippis, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle, at S. J. Hodgkinson's drugstore.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved in taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle was miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

HOW IT WAS INTRODUCED.

Miss Clapp Disclaims Having Been the Introducee of Tickle-Grass.

The following is clipped from the Carson Tribune:

RENO, August 2, 1889.

Friend Sweeney: The enclosed paragraph, which appeared in the Tribune, was sent to me from Carson City:

Ed. Sweeney swears by all that's holy that Miss Clapp is responsible for the tickle-grass nuisance, she having introduced it here several years ago as an ornamental garden grass.

I am somewhat surprised that a man of your good sense should attribute to me so atrocious a thing as introducing tickle-grass into the country.

The first tickle-grass I ever saw was at Mr. Griswold's place, now owned by Mrs. O'Hare. He had it growing as an ornamental grass. I cannot say whether he was the first to introduce it, but remember it from discussing with him the injurious qualities of the grass, Mr. Griswold contending that it was like barley.

We have fought the grass side by side for years. Respectfully,

H. K. CLAPP.

THE NEXT ATTRACTION.

Robert Mantell, the famous actor, will be here next Wednesday. The famous romantic actor, Robert Mantell, will appear at the Opera House on Wednesday evening next in his great play, "Monbars," in which he made a great hit in San Francisco a few weeks ago. The play has been successful in every city in this country, and praise of Mr. Mantell's acting is universal. The Baltimore Sun says: Robert Mantell and his company received at the Holiday Street Theatre last night a reception that was as flattering as it was deserved. His play "Monbars," a playlet from the French of D'Enery, is rich in opportunity and strong in dramatic tone, and Mr. Mantell, as Robert Monbars, gave a masterly rendition. The anti-climax in the fourth act was especially effective and gained the greatest applause of the audience, who would not rest until the star had appeared three times.

AN ACCIDENT.

Mrs. F. M. Rowland of Long Valley has a very little daughter in returning from a visit to one of their neighbors in Long Valley on Friday last met with quite a serious accident. In going down a steep hill the breeching gave away, letting the buggy onto the horse's heels, when he started to run, and in crossing a deep ditch, Mrs. Rowland and the little girl were thrown violently to the ground, Mrs. Rowland striking on the back of her head and rendering her insensible for several minutes. She was in a dazed condition for twelve or fifteen hours after the accident, but is now all right. Her daughter escaped with a black eye and a bruised lip.

Feeling the Pinch.

Indian Agent Sears informs the GAZETTE that the supply of water in the lower Truckee has suddenly ceased, and he doubts if more than sufficient can be found to irrigate more than the reservation garden. There was plenty up to ten days ago when it dropped right off. This will leave the grain and hay fields destitute, which is a great pity, as the Indians are making good progress in agriculture and take especial pride in that farm.

Hunting Artesian Water.

F. M. Rowland is sinking an artesian well on his ranch in Long Valley. He was down Saturday 180 feet, and had struck a light flow, which was shut off by the casing. He is looking for a copious flow at any time, and from the location of the well, which is in about the center of the valley, the GAZETTE hopes he will be successful. If Mr. Rowland finds water there will be quite a number of wells bored at once.

Ninety Days.

The two parties who tackled Cooper's safe the morning after the fire of May 26th were permitted to enter a plea of guilty of petty larceny yesterday and were sentenced to 90 days each in the county jail. They have been in jail 72 days. The offense appears to be a drunken freak rather than an intended wrong. The parties injured petitioned for mercy to the offenders.

Lawn Tennis in Long Valley.

Lawn tennis parties are the rage in Long Valley this season. The good people, old and young, meet at one neighbor's, and some very interesting games are the result. Reno will have to awaken or our neighbors at the North will leave us in everything. The Long Valley club stands ready to challenge any club east of the Sierras.

Stock Shipments.

This morning five cars of cattle, shipped at Iron Point by Ed. Layton, and eleven cars from the same place, by H. J. Pratt, were unloaded here, and will be forwarded to California this evening.

Stirring up the Vags.

A passenger on this morning's east-bound passenger informed a GAZETTE reporter that the "601" of Truckee ticketed the town last night, and that soon after daylight this morning the vags commenced getting out of that village in every direction.

Long Valley suffering for water. Long Valley was never so dry before as it is now. All the mountain streams are as dry as a driveway, and the ranches and stock are suffering for water. The crops were very short, and many of the grain crops were absolute failures.

A One-Round Contest.

Last evening a disgraceful rumble occurred at Davis' restaurant, back of the Palace Hotel, which resulted in the cuffing and choking of a woman and the scratching of a male's face.

A. J. Clark is clearing off his lot between the Phoenix and Pioneer Hotels preparatory to building.

Owing to the unusual drought it is thought that Nevada will have no potatoes for shipment this season.

John Gorton, the Clipper Gap train robber, recently tried at Auburn, Cal., was sentenced to ten years in the State Prison.

At Lakeport, Or., last Saturday the swarms of black gnats were so numerous that the people built fires in the streets to drive them off.

J. B. Polk was deserving of a much better house than he played to last night. He gives a first-class show and is backed up by a good company.

The East Con. mine, near Steamboat, owned by R. Kirman and some Eastern parties, is working five men. They purpose drifting for the ledge at the 100-foot level.

Quite a number of Carson girls are said to have organized an anti-kissing society, but those who have seen the members of this new organization say such a precaution was entirely unnecessary.

The finishing touches are being put on the Phoenix Hotel. To-day the bricklayers are rapidly nearing the completion of the fire walls. Mr. Kilten, the proprietor, justly feels proud of his new block.

It is not known what any special rate from Reno to the Caledonian picnic has been agreed upon, but it is more than likely that some excursion arrangement will be made, of which notice will be given. A pleasant day is sure to be enjoyed by all who are able to attend.

PERSONAL.

George Winters, the Smoke Creek rancher, is in town.

J. W. Dorsey, the Elko Attorney, passed west this morning.

Miss Sarah Higgins returned this morning from a pleasant trip to Weber Lake.

Jonathan, Duane of Carson has been notified of his appointment as Weigher in the Mint.

J. W. Grayson of the Oakland cattle-buying firm of Grayson, Owen & Co. passed east this morning.

Fred Hagerman, Nick Hammer-smith and P. H. Mulcahy have gone to Hope Valley on a camping trip.

J. F. Dennis, the Battle Mountain Attorney and editor of the "Central Nevada," is in Reno to-day.

Alvaro Evans, General C. C. Powning, M. D. Ely, J. A. Fitzgerald and Harry Davis returned this morning from San Francisco.

Maurice May of Verdi is in town to-day looking as genial and pleasant as twenty years ago, when at Franktown he and H. H. Beck used to sit up all night playing 20 beans for a half.

A Chilly Retreat.

The Silver City Avalanche says: "Idaho is truly a land of wonders, and Owyhee is not behind her sister counties in the matter of real, natural curiosities. We refer to the tunnel on Florida Mountain, in which ice is formed on the warmest days by the water dripping from the top of the cave or tunnel to the floor and freezing in large cakes. A number of our citizens make frequent trips to this cool and bask in the sunshine, with a cake of ice on their heads or under each arm, and the ice-cold-if-not-colder water dripping down their backs."

Came Near Resulting Fatally.

The Carson Tribune of the 5th inst. says: Ed. Patterson, well known in Carson, came near bleeding to death at Glenbrook a few nights since. He extracted a tooth that was troubling him and blood began flowing copiously from the cavity. By hanging on the wall Ed. managed to wake some neighboring lodgers, and they came in and found him nearly gone from the loss of blood. The flow was checked and Patterson is again himself.

Miss Adjusters.

The Carson Tribune says it is understood that the following ladies have received notifications of appointment to positions in the Adjusting Department of the Mint: Mrs. J. Hamilton (forewoman), Miss Mettie Curry and Miss Mary Mott of Carson; Miss Kate Fellows of Reno, Miss Florence Prince of Hawthorne, Miss Jaqua of Dayton and Miss Lena Brophy of Virginia.

A Dislocated Arm.

Last week as Mrs. Fagg, mother of Mrs. H. M. Frost, living near Glenbrook, was being driven home from town by Spencer, a hired man, the team started to run and broke the pole of the wagon, throwing both occupants to the ground. Mrs. Fagg suffered a fracture and the dislocation of her left arm, and Spencer was badly bruised, but had no bones broken.

A Thoughtful Proposition.

The Caledonians have extended an invitation to the inmates of the State Orphan's Home to attend their picnic at Treadway's Park next Saturday free of charge.

ANCIENT CITIES.

HUMBOLDT NEWS.

Supposed to have Contained Thirty Millions of People.

A dispatch from the City of Mexico under date of August 3d contains the following: Recently returned explorers from the State of Chiapas confirm and add to the remarkable reports concerning important archaeological discoveries there.

A fine, broad, paved road, built by prehistoric inhabitants, has been traced from Tenala down into Guatemala and thence in a curve up again into Mexico, terminating in Palenque.

All along the road are still to be seen the remains of ruined cities, and a careful estimate of the population of these places is about 30,000,000.

On that part of the road near Palenque the ruins are of great magnitude—houses of four, and often five, stories high have been found in the depth of the forest.

Many of these houses are pyramidal in form, and so covered are some of them with vegetable mold that large trees are growing from the roofs. In some of the houses great employment has been made of stone beams of tremendous weight, and the architecture indicates a high degree of scientific attainment.

In some houses, it is stated, bronze lamps have been discovered, and the interior and exterior mural decorations of the more important houses consist of panels, filled with elaborately carved figures almost of life size, two types of men and women being represented, some plainly Egyptians and others genuine Africans. In front of one of the houses the explorers found fourteen sculptors of God with folded arms.

The work of exploration was one of extreme difficulty, owing to the density of the forest and the unwillingness of the Indians to enter the ancient edifices, they averring that the buildings were inhabited by spirits.

Another discovery was that of an enormous paved road, which extends from Palenque across Yucatan to the island of Cozumel and is continued on the island.

The Palenque explorers assert that they have discovered in the edifices before mentioned examples of perfect architecture.

One explorer is a scientifically trained man who has recently arrived from India, and by his account the region from Chiapas to Yucatan must have been the seat of a densely populous nation.

A Few More Dukes.

"Cockaigne" says there are now no unmarried Dukes for American girls to marry—if the Duke of Somerset, a bachelor aged 79, comes under that engaging category. But there are four ducal widowers—their Graces of Norfolk, Devonshire, Grafton and Richmond—and perhaps "our girls" can manage to capture one of them. Money, alas! is no object, which adds to the difficulty of the chase.

A Sudden Death.

The Elko Independent says: William Goetz, a member of the Ancient Order of Forrester, on his way from San Francisco to attend the Grand Order, which is to meet at Minneapolis on the evening of the 5th inst. of hemorrhage of the lungs. Deceased was about 45 years of age and leaves a wife. The remains were returned to San Francisco.

Shaken, Broiled and Drenched.

They are also the three successive conditions undergone every day, every other day, or every third day, by the unhappy wretch heedless enough to allow fever and ague to fasten its clutches upon him. No need of it—none. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will and does preserve those who use it from every type of malarial disease, whether intermittent or bilious remittent. For nearly thirty-five years it has been a professional recognized specific for the preventive of these tenacious maladies, not only on our own soil, but the tropical and equatorial lands where the scourge is prevalent at all seasons and in its worst forms. Biliousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney complaint, nervousness and debility are also ailments to the complete removal of which the Bitters long since demonstrated its adequacy.

CONTAGION OF MANNERS.

Advantages of Bringing Children of Different Social Circles Together.

At a large public meeting the other day several of the speakers urged the value of public school discipline, pointing out the advantage of bringing children of different social circles together in school as in life; and the permanent good arising when the child of the professional man, for instance, is beaten in his studies, as sometimes happens, by the child of the day-laborer. All such allusions invariably brought applause from a very well educated and generally well-to-do audience, writes Thomas Wentworth Higginson in Harper's Bazar. But it was observable that these arguments all began and ended with boys. Not a word was said by any speaker about the advantages or disadvantages, if any, of giving to girls the same discipline; and this omission seemed rather to vitiate the argument. As the education and even the employments of the two sexes are plainly coming nearer together—contrary to what used to be predicted as the result of advancing civilization—it would seem that the problem of education must be in this respect much the same for both. Yet there are undoubtedly many parents who, while able to see advantages of a more public education for boys, draw the line there, and demand for their growing daughters what is called a "select school."

My own impression is that this distinction is a mistake, and that whatever arguments apply to public school education for boys must reach girls also. In the first place, girls need, even more than boys, to learn at school the qualities and merits of those in a different social circle, because if they do not learn it then, they may never learn it. Men learn it all through their lives, because almost every department of business brings into contact and comparison those trained in very different spheres. Women not engaged in business have less opportunity for this contact; their homes include but two grades—employers and employed; and outside of their homes it is only some rare occasion of church work or charitable work which brings women into that easy intercourse with those of their own sex which is so familiar to men. If Jane Maria does not learn at school that the daughter of the coal-heaver or the washer-woman may be as good a scholar and even have as good manners as herself, she may never have another opportunity; whereas her brother may make the same discovery in college or in business. So far, then, the need of this free early intercourse would seem even greater in case of the girl.

The answer to this would be that the risk of contamination in morals or manners will be also greater in case of the girl. Is this so certain? It is useless to deny that in certain large cities populated largely by lately arrived foreigners there may be some ground for this fear; but it must not be carried far. It must always be remembered that, fortunately for our civilization, the race and religion most largely represented among these very foreigners happen to maintain a high standard of feminine purity; and that, therefore, as to the most important essentials, the danger is less than one might suppose. If it be said that in case of a girl there should be absolutely no danger at all, it can only be answered that such security has never been discovered, since the conventional system of education certainly does not effect it. Even as to manners, the most exclusive private school may still leave much to be desired. The more exclusive it is, the more certain it is that some very rough material will be sent there to be made into shape. I have heard an anxious parent deplore that the occasional outbreaks of her little girl in the direction of rude and slang were generally traced to the carefully selected children of the city school, and not to the offspring of country blacksmiths and farm laborers with whom she played at their summer home.

I remember to have discussed this matter many years ago with a gentleman whose official duties obliged him to take an interest in the public schools. He shook his head over them a good deal, thinking that bad manners were more contagious than good, and that the general mixture was dangerous. Yet it turned out, as I suspected, that his own daughters could have taught other school-girls more real mischief than they would have learned from them, although these young ladies had been reared in French seclusion. It is the general experience, probably, that the freedom of American manners trains those who grow up under it, and that there is nothing more dangerous than to be transplanted into it from a foreign convent. As to the general proposition that bad is more contagious than good, it is probable that much depends on the temperament of the observer. It is to be noticed, however, that the greater imitableness of girls is, on the whole, an aid to civilization. Any one can see in a public school that the presence of a few girls better dressed and better mannered than the rest is a great stimulus to the others and a source of immediate imitation, whereas boys care comparatively little for such things. The longing desire for "good form" exhibits itself in girls of eight or ten, whereas a boy of the same age would with the greatest composure wear a torn hat and patched trousers into the presence of a feudal aristocracy.

On the whole, where home influences are thoroughly good and a child's nature is still transparent, so that the parent can keep watch over it, there seems to be little danger to the manners and morals of boys, or even of girls, from any ordinary public school. Early sins are less contagious than we are apt to suppose, and they certainly do not go so deep. Any one who will review his childish associates, and consider how many of his most perilous companions have turned out irreproachably, will surely take a more hopeful view. The only boy in my native town with whom I was expressly forbidden to associate, for fear of moral contamination, has since died an eminent clergyman; and the only member of my college class who ever reached the State prison would have been recognized by unanimous vote, at our graduation, as the most trustworthy and thoroughly respectable member of the class.

The Humorous of Plants.
A good-natured plant has been discovered, one which has the same desire as Punch is supposed to feel, namely, to make people laugh. The seeds are black, resembling a French bean in size and shape, and have a sweet taste, a flavor somewhat like opium, and a sickening odor. Small doses of the pulverized seeds give rise to peculiar manifestations. The person laughs boisterously, sings, dances and cuts up all kinds of fantastic capers. The excitement continues about an hour, when the subject falls into a deep sleep of an hour or more, and awakes utterly unconscious of his late ridiculous behavior.

New Use of Glycerine.
Carpenters and other tool-users who keep up with the times now use a mixture of glycerine instead of oil for sharpening their edge tools. Oil, as is well known, thickens and smears the stone. The glycerine may be mixed with spirits in greater or less proportion, according as the tools to be sharpened are fine or coarse. For the average blade two parts of glycerine to one of spirits will suffice.

The Babe Has Grown.
A Salem (D. T.) newspaper prints the following unique advertisement: "If John Jones, who, twenty years ago deserted his poor wife and babe, will return, said babe will lick the stuff out of him."

SENTIMENT IN BUSINESS.

A Drummer Discovers a Pawnbroker with a Conscience.

I have had occasion to call on "my uncle" in almost every large city in the country," said the drummer to a New York Sun reporter, and I'm telling you St. Louis is the hardest place I ever struck. About six months ago I brought up there dead broke, and, while waiting to hear from the firm, I took a dress-coat over to a pawn shop to get a loan of three or four dollars. It cost me thirty dollars, and was almost new. "How much do you want on dot?" asked the broker, who was an old man. "Oh, about four dollars." He stepped back, and held up his hands in amazement and gasped: "My friend, would you be so sorry kind ash to walk out! I know yur doan' wish me no harm, und I treat you as a shentleman."

"Why should I go out?" "Because my brudder will be in here ferry soon, and I doan like him to find you. He will look upon you ash crazy, and he may proceed to violence." "What makes you think I'm crazy?" I asked. "Dot coat. May be you vas only foolish, but my brudder doan' stop for dot. Four dollars on dot coat-a-h-h!" "It cost $30." "Where?" "In Boston." "Ah! Dot accounts for him. My friend, do you know what I make sooch coat for? Three dollar, sir." "Is it possible?" "Dot tailor make twenty-seven dollars out of you slick ash grease. It vas poor cloth, poor make, und one shoulder vas lopped." "Well, how much will you advance on it?" "Feefty cent."

"What! That's an insult!" "Please doan' speak so loud. My brudder may come in any time, und he vas ferry silent if you speak loud."

"But I don't want to be insulted. Give me that coat."

"Of course; but please doan' go away mat. I like to please all customers. Dot vas my way of advertizing my peenness. May be I vas mistaken, und I ask you a question."

"What is it?" "Please doan' be mad, for I vas your friend. I lik to ask if you want dot money to run away on! May be you vas going to abscent."

"And may be you vas an infernal old liar!" "Den you doan' run away! My friend, dot lifts a great burden off my back. I vas afraid of you. I vas afraid I might help you on der road to ruin, und I make a low offer. You vas all right, und I now take dot coat and gif you one dollar. If my brudder come in, doan' tell him how mooch I gif. He vas silent if I let sentiment influence me in peenness."

THE MODERN BASE-BALL.
How It Is Made by the Pretty Girls of Natick, Mass.

The base-ball of to-day, as produced at Natick, is made by hand, writes a Boston correspondent. The laborers employed in the work are nearly all girls.

The spherical core, of best rubber, is first carefully wrapped with a given amount of the most costly yarn.

When the ball has thus grown to about two-thirds of the size it is to be a leather cover is stitched on with a needle and waxed thread.

This cover has the effect of keeping the ball compact and in shape, and of regulating its elasticity.

Then more yarn is wound upon it, until it is found to turn the scales at precisely the right point.

Finally the outer cover of horsehide is sewed on, and the ball, after being stamped and again weighed to make sure that it is just five ounces, is wrapped in tin foil, put into a box with five more like it, and declared ready for sale.

The cover, as an examination of a base-ball will show you, is stamped out of leather in but two curiously shaped pieces, which, sewn on the ball, together exactly cover it.

This device was not invented until 1855. The cheaper grades of base-balls are made of poorer yarn and rubber scraps, the latter pressed into a pulp by powerful machinery.

The less expensive ball the less yarn and more scraps will be used in its manufacture, until, when you get to the "Small Boy's Own," price five cents, there is nothing to be found inside the flimsy cover but melted remnants of rubber shoes.

A Million Deaf Mutes.
There is in the civilized world an average of one deaf mute to every 1,500 of the population; in other words, there are at least 1,000,000 of this afflicted class. In the United States there are 38,000; in Great Britain, 30,000; in Germany, 25,000; in France, 30,000; in Sweden, 2,000; in Norway, 1,100; in Denmark, 2,000; in Holland, 2,500; and in Switzerland (the country above all others where deafness is prevalent), 10,000.

Cholera in Michigan.
Dr. F. D. Lark, of Rogers City, Michigan, says the epidemic of last year in Presque Isle county, in which so many persons lost their lives, was cholera dysentery instead of cholera as first reported. He used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says it succeeded, where all other remedies failed. Not a single case was lost in which it was used. This remedy is the most reliable and most successful medicine known for colic, cholera, morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea and bloody flux. Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.
